GELSY Verna

Le corpus d'œuvres de l'artiste canadienne d'origine haïtienne, Gelsy Verna se compose principalement de collages, d'œuvres sur papier, de techniques mixtes et d'huile sur toile. Au cours de ses années de pratique, son travail a échangé un style de dessin méticuleux pour une vision plus vulnérable et brutalement honnête qui suit un processus de dessin / pensée. En tant qu'artiste émergente, elle étoffe son parcours grâce à sa participation à de nombreuses expositions, principalement dans la région de Chicago, lesquelles précèdent plusieurs expositions collectives, en duo et en solo à travers les États-Unis ainsi qu'en Autriche, en Allemagne et au Japon.

Certaines de ses œuvres font partie de collections institutionnelles, corporatives et privées incluant celles de la Kohler Art Library de l'UW-Madison, du Southern Graphics de l'Université du Mississippi, du Princeton University Art Museum, du Chambers Hotel à New York, du siège social de la Citibank à Chicago et de la collection personnelle de Kerry James Marshall. Son travail a également fait l'objet de publication, interviews et revues d'expositions. Récemment, plusieurs de ces œuvres ont été incluses dans l'exposition Imaginaires souverains à la Maison de la culture Janine-Sutto et la galerie Hugues Charbonneau, dont le commissariat a été réalisé par Dominique Fontaine. Regroupant les œuvres de quinze artistes soulignant l'effervescence de la créativité des artistes qui ont une origine haïtienne, elle représente une première présentation sur une des terres d'adoption de Verna agissant comme un retour ou des retrouvailles avec l'une de ces sources.

Verna a vécu les premières années de sa vie en Haïti puis au Congo, avant d'immigrer en 1968 avec sa famille à Montréal. Après avoir amorcé des études en microbiologie, elle prend conscience de son attirance vers l'art. Elle se réoriente donc, passant du côté des États-Unis afin d'étudier au Art Institute of Chicago où elle obtiendra un Bachelor in Fine Arts puis un Master in Fine Arts, les deux avec une concentration en peinture et dessin. Elle a également fréquenté le Hoschule fur Bilden Kunste à Braunschewig en Allemagne ainsi que la Skowhegan School of Painting and Sculpture dans le Maine. Verna a été professeure en arts visuels, notamment à l'Université de l'Iowa et à l'Université du Wisconsin.

GELSY Verna

The body of work of the Haitian-born, Canadian artist, Gelsy Verna consists mainly of collages, works on paper, mixed media and oil on canvas. Over the course of her practice, her work has exchanged a meticulous drawing style for a more vulnerable and brutally honest view that follows a drawing/thinking process. As an emerging artist, she expands her professional path through her participation in numerous exhibitions, mainly in the Chicago area, which precede several collective, duo and solo exhibitions across the United States as well as in Austria, in Germany and Japan.

Some of her works are part of institutional, corporate and private collections including those of the Kohler Art Library of UW-Madison, the Southern Graphics of the University of Mississippi, the Princeton University Art Museum, the Chambers Hotel in New York, from the Citibank headquarters in Chicago and the personal collection of Kerry James Marshall. Her work has also been the subject of publications, interviews and exhibition reviews. Recently, several of her works were included in the Sovereign Imaginaries exhibition at the Maison de la culture Janine-Sutto and Gallery Hugues Charbonneau, which was curated by Dominique Fontaine. Bringing together the works of fifteen artists, it highlights the effervescence of the creativity of artists who share an Haitian origin, it also represents a first presentation on one of Verna's adopted lands ,acting as a return or homecoming.

Verna lived the first years of her life in Haiti and then in the Congo, before immigrating in 1968 with her family to Montreal. After beginning studies in microbiology, she became aware of her attraction to art. She therefore reoriented herself, moving to the United States to study at the Art Institute of Chicago where she obtained a Bachelor in Fine Arts and then a Master in Fine Arts, both with a concentration in painting and drawing. She also attended the Hochschule fur Bildende Kunste in Braunschweig, Germany and the Skowhegan School of Painting and Sculpture in Maine. Verna has been a professor of visual arts, notably at the University of Iowa and the University of Wisconsin.

Gelsy died suddenly in March 2008 at the age of 46.

CHANTAL GIBSON

Chantal Gibson est une écrivaine, artiste et éducatrice primée qui vit sur les terres ancestrales des peuples salish de la côte. Travailler dans le chevauchement entre art littéraire et art visuel, son travail affronte de front le colonialisme, imaginant les voix du BIPOC réduites au silence dans les espaces et omissions laissées par l'effacement culturel et institutionnel. Son art visuel a été exposé au ROM, au Musée des beaux-arts de Montréal, au Art Gallery of Nova Scotia, Open Space Victoria, MacKenzie Art Gallery, Vancouver Art Gallery, Museum of Anthropology, et le Sénat du Canada. Elle participe actuellement à l'exposition Nostalgia Interrupted à la Doris McCarthy Gallery de Toronto. Son premier livre de poésie, How She Read (Caitlin Press, 2019) explore la représentation des femmes noires dans l'histoire canadienne, art, littérature. Il a remporté le Pat Lowther Memorial Award 2020 et le Dorothy Livesay Poetry Prize 2020 et a été présélectionné pour le prestigieux prix de poésie Griffin 2020. Sa collection de suivi with/holding (Caitlin Press, 2021) examine la représentation de La noirceur à travers les médias numériques. Boursier national d'enseignement 3M 2021, Gibson enseigne l'écriture et la communication de conception à l'École des arts interactifs et de la technologie de l'Université Simon Fraser.

CHANTAL GIBSON

Chantal Gibson is an award-winning writer-artist-educator living on the ancestral lands of the Coast Salish Peoples. Working in the overlap between literary and visual art, her work confronts colonialism head on, imagining the BIPOC voices silenced in the spaces and omissions left by cultural and institutional erasure. Her visual art has been exhibited at the ROM, the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts, the Art Gallery of Nova Scotia, Open Space Victoria, the MacKenzie Art Gallery, the Vancouver Art Gallery, the Museum of Anthropology, and the Senate of Canada. She is currently exhibiting in the exhibition, Nostalgia Interrupted, at the Doris McCarthy Gallery in Toronto. Her debut book of poetry, How She Read (Caitlin Press, 2019) explores the representation of Black women in Canadian history, art, literature. It won the 2020 Pat Lowther Memorial Award and the 2020 Dorothy Livesay Poetry Prize and was shortlisted for the prestigious 2020 Griffin Poetry Prize. Her follow up collection with/holding (Caitlin Press, 2021) examines the representation of Blackness across digital media. A 2021 3M National Teaching Fellow,
